PROFILE

End-to-end trained Data Analyst, from raw data through to production deployment.

Work with Python, SQL, Power BI, machine learning and Docker, applying critical judgement to every technical decision I make — not simply the tools themselves.

My differentiator is not speed; it is sustainability. What I deliver is maintainable, explainable and scalable. Clean pipelines, dashboards that provide clarity rather than noise, models built on validated assumptions, and documentation that enables others to continue from where I leave off.

I come from environments where data mattered, even when it was not labelled as such: retention metrics, case tracking, operational KPIs. That experience gave me something formal education does not always provide — an understanding of the business question behind every column.
